Zarrow's Show ni Town.

Oh, B-c-y! Jack Fuquay is back in town, all dolled up and with enough pep to be the whole show himself, although Zarrow has surrounded him with an aggregation of beauty and talent that hashelped Jack make the American Girls, the premier tabloid organization on the Gus Sun Time. The Smiths who are almost — pellinown as Jack himself, Elisie Zeigler, the daintiest darling of them all, with this popular soubrette Ellen Ross, and a capering chorus of girlies, pretty in face and figure, are banded together for the sole purpose of writing smiles on the face of troubled folks who have thirty-three sents to invest in a sure cure for the blues. Most of these show folks have been here frequently before, and they have never disappointed yet with their efforts. The Hipportome ought to be packed tonight with the coming of a company like this, since last week was so pleasing. The bills which were to be used the coming week, are all lively affairs, with little more than enough to introduce the stars, and keep the chorus in sight as much of the time as possible, Mr. Usher, two seats in the front rowplease, label one "Gone but not forgotten" in honor of Old Stager, the first man Jack asked about after he got his breath from the walk up to Carrico's.

Metropolitan Artists.

The big musical event of the season is the presentation of the two popular operas, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" at the Grand tomorrow night by the De Feo Grand Opera company. This company of soloits, every member of the chorus being able to take vorious roles in the reportoirs with credit.

When with this unusual feature is united the names of artists who have appeared in the Metropolitan and the Chicargo Opera companies, or who have reached distinction before highly critical audiences in Europe, the privilege of hearing the preductions may be appreciated. Impressario De Feo who will be here in person with the company during the engagement did much to bring Caruso to public notic.
